Today I have an ARC of a new thriller for you to read and I'm giving away a copy! All you have to do is comment, or email me to let me know you're participating. And don't forget to check out the giveaway at the end of this post! Now, onto the book! Synopsis: As the daughter of a Russian exile living in Tokyo, Monalisa Vasić dreams of a life of art, not a life of drugs and prostitution. When she is kidnapped and forced into the world of commercialized prostitution in Tokyo's red light district, she encounters a world that is both familiar and totally foreign to her. Seeking out the protection of one of the world's most notorious and ruthless criminal syndicates, Monalisa must decide whether to align herself with the men of the cartel and her sister's captors or the men who have infiltrated her family's criminal empire, and who are more interested in helping her escape her situation than with turning her into a pawn. Both sides have their own agendas, but Monalisa must decide if there is a future for herself in the world of prostitution, and which side of the law she should be on. MY REVIEW: I have to admit, I was a little apprehensive about this book. It was the book I had picked out before I did this blog, and it's a novel I'd been wanting to read. Something tells me I might not have a happy ending to this book. I am so happy to say that I was wrong. I was so happy to see that Monalisa was actually a decent person. She isn't a selfish person, and that's what I
