A: I solved the issue by creating a new user group and deploying as that user. Q: How to write a HQL query for the following case. (SQL) I have a table employee_employee which has an entry like id employeeid employeename I want to write a query that matches me with the Employeeid of the name. I have tried the following but it does not work SELECT * FROM Employee WHERE employeeid = :Employeeid AND employeename = :Employeename A: Concatenate the column and values with AND, also add a space between them: SELECT * FROM Employee WHERE employeeid = :Employeeid AND employeename = :Employeename If the use of an alias is allowed, then you can simplify the query (without having to repeat the column name): SELECT * FROM Employee
