The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention influenza vaccine community network began monitoring vaccine coverage estimates for 2009-2010 and 2010-2011 influenza seasons in August 2009. We assessed the accuracy of three estimates of national vaccine coverage for these two seasons.

We calculated influenza vaccine coverage by cross-sectional survey and randomized telephone survey based on respondents' knowledge of their vaccination status and by a separate survey of respondents' medical providers (n = 706). Median influenza vaccine coverage estimates by cross-sectional survey were 24% (interquartile range [IQR], 21%-27%) for 2009-2010 and 25%
