. . sarah is scammed by horney wife's boyfriend when he sent photo of his penis to her and begged for dick.

hotassbabysmom record her young neighbor with jockstrap on over her clothes.Q: Static inline function having

"__attribute__((const))" I was going through the GNU C Library manual here and saw an interesting function. Below is the code snippet void __attribute__((noinline)) exit(int status) { cleanup(); if (__sync_bool_compare_and_swap(&use_rts_glibc, 0, 1)) __asm__ ("mov %0, #0 \t" "stc %1, %0 "iteeq %2, %0,.L3 "bne.L3 : "+&c"(__RTC_RETURN), "&Q"(__retval_c), "&b"(__retval_b) : "i"(__fd), "i"(FPU_C)) _exit(status); } The code is saying " If the RTS GLIBC is not present then exit with the status code given by __fd and __retval_c should be 0 and __retval_b should be 1 " But I don't understand what is the meaning of "__attribute__((const))" here. Can someone explain what does it mean and why it was put here? A: It's telling the compiler that the value of the argument to that function is const. Without that attribute, you'd get a warning telling you that the value of that argument isn't const. Without that warning, the compiler could
