The New Zealand desert is hotter than the desert in the US and there is not much shade on this first leg. We are soon accosted by a small herd of goats in front of the convoy with goats meandering among cars. The terrain is very rough, especially for my car. It is time to take it easy as we have a long drive ahead of us. I do get to stop in a small mining town called Aramoana for some airtime. It is filled with crazy characters who speak and act like they are all actors in a movie. They are just living in this small town. May 30 – Bega Valley The Bega Valley is a sandy outback with not much of interest as we arrive late afternoon. A few old people are walking, lots of sheep and goats and they all seem to moo
