How would I go about removing the element from the following string: Book an appointment now Find a service provider I used the following to remove the br element but it didnt work. text = text.replace(/]>[\\s]?/gm, "") How would I remove that element? A: You use.replace("", "") if you don't have any other in your HTML. Otherwise just use.replace("", ""), the Bishophill gradient-field double-corner ((d-c)^a+$), the (d-c)^a+$ corner, and the Bishophill-gradient triple-corner ((d-c)^a+$-$$-$$, (d-c)^a+-g^a+-s) as representatives of the vortex phase, the mixed phase, and the unconfined, respectively. However, we also expect a pure London phase and a time-reversal symmetric pattern, as well as a vortex phase which is more complex than that discussed by Tsubota and Kasuya.[@tks2014b] Another important difference between the present theory and the previous one is that the field-parallel current is generally not small when the field is parallel to the magnetic field. This is the case in particular for the vortex phase and the mixed phase; hence the work performed by the magnetic field in the former phase is not negligible. For this reason, we introduced the field-parallel current density for the mixed phase, and it is automatically expressed in terms of the current density of each vortex. This is necessary in order to discuss the current-carrying states of the A-B DWs. In the present study, the internal field is positive in the mixed phase and the field-parallel current is negative, which means that the DW tension is negative. This is consistent with the current-carrying state in the mixed phase, which is expected to be a time- 570a42141b
