What's New in the NetMSG Send?

Messenger service is included with Windows NT and all newer releases, messenger service is no longer available on Vista/Server 2008 and subsequent service pack editions. NetMSG Send can be used to send messages to Windows Messenger users. Message and Receiver are given in a textbox. As messages are saved, NetMSG Send keeps a log of all messages, allowing you to keep an eye on past messages, even if you have not received them. NetMSG Send can receive messages from the full range of Windows-based computers, including non-NT systems and Windows XP/7-based systems (including Win9x). Internet Explorer's existing "HTML intepreter" is used to represent the messages, which makes NetMSG Send compatible with IE and other browsers. NetMSG Send uses a very slim and lightweight framework to provide you with a rich interface without bloatware. It does not require any special runtime software, and is lightweight enough to run in memory on your own computer. NetMSG Send is different from most other messengers, because it does not require a "client" to be installed on the receiving end of the message. Instead, NetMSG Send is able to receive messages from any Windows computer that has installed the messenger service. This is possible due to a unique receiver thread (that can be used by any application, even if it was not specifically created to receive messages. The NetMSG Send program uses this receiver thread to receive messages, and then plays the received message through the native interfaces (ie. IE message view). The intent of NetMSG Send is to allow a user with no other messenger installed to receive and reply to messages from any Windows client that has the messenger service installed. NetMSG Send is easy to use. The program allows you to add recipient names to a sending list, and it will take care of all the details, such as message interception, sender tracking, "silently" receive messages, and a lot more. NetMSG Send provides many advanced features to help you in your daily work: ▪ Added "silently" receive functionality. ▪ Automatic reply. ▪ Network discovery. ▪ Sender tracking. ▪ Blocking sender support ▪ Alias support ▪ User-friendly and
