This new version of VOVSOFT - M3U8 Downloader features a set of improvements that bring it up to date with the current version of Windows. To ensure that the software works at its best and offers a consistent user experience, the application has been updated with the new Windows 10 operating system. Windows 10 allows users to open M3U8 files with the "Media Player" app. It is this change that made it possible for us to update the software to work with the latest version of Windows. We also added the latest version of FFmpeg, an open source software commonly used to encode and decode media files. Because of this, our software now works with the latest version of FFmpeg. In addition to those changes, we fixed some bugs and enhanced the experience of the application. Finally, we made it possible to download only one file per folder, and to identify HTTP resources as M3U8 files. How to install VOVSOFT M3U8 Downloader? To install VOVSOFT - M3U8 Downloader, simply unzip the file in the location you want and double-click to launch it. You are then asked to select where to save the downloaded content. You can also go to "Settings" to change the location. Please note that the application comes in both portable and non-portable versions. If you download the non-portable version, you can move it to any folder of your choice. You will, however, have to adjust the setting in the program to download to the same location. If you download the portable version, you don't need to change the program's settings. This means that you can set the destination folder to any folder you prefer and move the portable version anywhere you wish. What's new in version 3.0? The following are the improvements that brought VOVSOFT - M3U8 Downloader 3.0. User-friendly M3U8 downloader

With KEYMACRO you can make your own keywords macro which allows to assign a keyboard shortcut for performing a certain task. A predefined set of useful macros is included in the software, however additional macros can be easily added. The functionality of KEYMACRO can be extended with any script or coding logic via the API. This means you can implement your own scripts which makes your macros much more powerful than just predefined macros. KEYMACRO offers two different ways to work with macros. First you can select an action which you want to perform and then assign a keyboard shortcut to the selected action. The shortcut can be a predefined keyboard shortcut or you can create your own. This can be done on a per macro basis or on a per action basis. Also you can choose to assign the keyboard shortcuts directly to the macro actions or to assign the keyboard shortcuts to the actions directly and then define the macro from the keyboard shortcut. You can change the default shortcuts which are assigned to the actions. Keyboard shortcuts can be used for saving actions or for creating new actions. New actions can be saved in the context menu of the action list. You can also assign a new keyboard shortcut to an action directly. This can be useful to create a shortcut which is able to perform a different action depending on the current context. Keyboard shortcuts are assigned to actions or actions are assigned to a keyboard shortcut. Keyboard shortcuts are only assigned to actions or actions are assigned to a keyboard shortcut. In case an action is assigned to a keyboard shortcut, the keyboard shortcut is used as a filter for the action list. Keyboard shortcuts can also be assigned to a context menu of an action. This means that the shortcuts can be used for the context menu of an action. Macros with keyboard shortcuts can be used to trigger macros with keyboard shortcuts. Macros can be triggered from the action list or directly from the context menu of an action. Macros can be triggered by keyboard shortcuts or by clicking on the context menu of an action. Macros can be triggered on a per macro basis or on a per action basis. With the macro editor you can create custom macros for KEYMACRO. You can edit the macro string and select the parts of the macro string which you want to make into a keyword.
