The iPhone was conceived to be the small form factor that enables people to easily carry around a powerful computer while simultaneously feeling like it's a phone. "iPhone" is the Spanish word for "revolution." The software runs on top of the processor and memory and is compatible with the iPhone itself. The interface is far better than any phone company's software. The interface is based on the most advanced mobile OS available, with features that will change the way you use the phone as a mobile computer. All of the iPhone software runs in a sandbox, a security framework that limits the software to a trusted directory in order to keep the security issue within the phone itself. iPhox provides all the standard calls with your iPhone using a free app called iCall Out. This app allows you to call landlines and mobile phones worldwide at very competitive prices. You can also communicate using the "Skype" app or Instant Messenger. With iCall Out, there is no need to send and receive messages on your phone - just send a phone number and your friends phone will ring, you don't need to send e-mails or text messages. You can record phone calls and messages using your iPhone. If you are interested in using iPhox, please visit our website at iphox.ie. Despite the recent rise in popularity of the Japanese sword, the rapier is still the preferred weapon of choice among many due to its low cost and sturdy yet elegant construction. Also known as a walk-past sword or falchion, rapiers are characterized by having straight and flat blades, often made of steel or laminated steel with iron fittings. In Italy, historical references to rapiers are numerous and date back to the 17th century. The rapier most likely originated in Europe, likely from the rapier/sabre style called the fleur de lance (flower of the lance), which became known as the French rapier.
