All I want to know the maximum number of queries that can be done in a thread in PHP. Because my server runs out of memory. Is there any limit for the number of queries that can be made in a thread? A: You really should not have to worry about running out of memory. You should use something like APC to cache your results so you are not running out of memory and then you can safely run more threads than you have memory. As to the number of queries: That's a pretty vague question, but I would suggest using a thread pool type thing, most operating systems will have a native pool of threads that will accept your tasks. That'll help a lot. Q: How to write an if-else statement inside the print() function Hello I am new to coding and it is my first assignment ever. I've searched on how to do this and have not been able to find anything. Here is what I have so far. #include using

It seems to be doing a pretty good job; except for the fact that there are some sources where it's reporting the same data multiple times. This happens when the data contains two or more streams of the same data (i.e. it's a multimonitor solution). Our solution currently involves using a VB. 3e33713323
