----- Gregorian Music is a small and easy to use application that enables you to compose Gregorian songs. It provides support for the common Gregorian notes, such as Punctums, Custos, left and right Virgas, Clef and more. The usage is simple: just select the item you want to insert and place it on the staff. The program also supports soft notes, texts and jazz improvisations. Among its features, the program has a similar appearance to Gregorian Orchestra, but it is not. The program is free. Any feedback is welcome. Thanks. Recent changes:New: User interface has been updated to create a more user-friendly interface 1.35 Jul 31, 2017 New: A bug has been fixed so that the music could be started and saved after having interrupted the work. 1.34 Jul 30, 2017 New: A bug has been fixed so that the music could be started and saved after having interrupted the work. New: Time signature in the Score panel has been slightly changed Jun 18, 2017 Version 1.33 New: In the Score panel, the horizontal guide is drawn to the right side, while the vertical guide is drawn to the top side of the staff. This may cause that the music looks upside-down on some cases, if you have your layout settings "lay out horizontally" or "lay out vertically" in your OS. If this happens, change your layout settings to "lay out horizontally" or "lay out vertically", and save. Thanks. Sep 5, 2016 Version 1.32 New: In the Score panel, vertical guide and horizontal guide are drawn in the same place, which may make the music look worse. Please choose "lay out vertically" or "lay out horizontally", and save. If this does not help, please open up a ticket on GitHub. Thanks. Sep 5, 2016 Version 1.31 New: In the Score panel, vertical guide and horizontal guide are drawn in the same place, which may make the music look worse. Please choose "lay out vertically" or "lay out horizontally", and save. If this does not help, please open up a ticket on GitHub. Thanks. Sep 5, 2016 Version 1.30 New: In the Score panel, vertical guide and horizontal guide are drawn in the same place, which may make the music look worse. Please choose "lay out vertically" or "lay out horizontally", and save. If this does not help, please open up a ticket on GitHub. Thanks. Sep 5, 2016 Version 1.29 New
