Just launch it and let it complete its work, and you'll get a tab on the top right of your desktop, with the results. The Interface On first sight, the application resembles Registry Viewer, which is an application based on the same kind of design. It takes you through a few steps, and ends with a tab which shows you all the items scanned, and allows you to remove items. There are options to scan all hives, hives 1-10, hives 11-20, hives 21-30, etc. and all subdirectories and files. The text description for each entry includes the file or key name, entry type, date and time it was created and last modified, and its source. The Background If you never performed a scan before, you should be warned that the application will take some time to complete its work. The process requires rebuilding, and modifying data that might have been modified in the last few days. The application is free, and no registration is required.
