ZoneVideo is a high quality online meeting software that enables you to talk with multiple users at the same time. You can use it in a private setting for small business purposes, or it can be used to conduct an organization-wide meeting. It was developed for personal and professional use to allow users to share videos, documents and content with multiple members over the internet. Create and manage video conferences ZV is an easy-to-use product that enables you to create and conduct an online conference by using screen sharing or sharing content. 1. Create and edit conference You can conduct meetings with the newly created conference by joining with the conference creator. You can edit the conference as you wish, adding various items such as videos, documents, and graphics.

2. Join conference You can conduct a conference by joining a conference with a meeting creator. During the conference, you can see various items such as meeting content, data, and information you shared before joining.

3. Meeting records You can see the conference records from a past conference. You can also perform replay and playback. ZV doesn't support a lot of features compared to other meeting software; however, we provide a great service with high quality because of our limitations. It offers features that enable multiple users to share videos, documents, and content using screen sharing or content sharing with multiple members over the internet. Features
