SoftKey Revealer Crack Torrent (Final 2022)

SoftKey Revealer is a very simple utility that scans the computer and displays the product keys for all applications installed on the system, including Windows and Microsoft Office. The interface is minimal and you don't really need more than that because all the detected product keys are neatly organized in the main window, along with the full name of the program. Since it's so important to store them safely, SoftKey Revealer also comes with a dedicated tool to save the product keys separately, but also with a "Copy to Word" feature to keep them in an Office document. Last but not least, there's a separate utility to print all the serials at once, so you don't even need to transfer them in a separate document in order to do complete this task. Adobe Key Decrypter and Windows Reg Info are two additional goodies offered by SoftKey Revealer, both of them accessible via the "Tools" menu in the main window. Other than that, SoftKey Revealer works flawlessly on all Windows versions, but Windows 7 users must load the app with administrator privileges to make sure it can extract all product keys. There is no help menu whatsoever, but chances are that you don't even need one because everything's straightforward and very intuitive. As a conclusion, it's a good thing to see SoftKey Revealer offering for free the same features other apps are only providing at a pretty hefty price. What's New In SoftKey Revealer?

Get all the keys for applications installed on your computer, easily extracted from the registry and automatically stored in an Office document. What's New in this Release: - Fixed the main window not updating the scan progress when scanning more than 1 file - Fixed a bug that made SoftKey Revealer not detect the correct language for the configuration UI - Removed the autostart menu from the main window - Added a menu with a link to the official SoftKey Web page - Added an option to have the results displayed as a tree list instead of a table - Added a short text on the right side of the table when an entry is highlighted to show the full name - Added the option to show a warning message if SoftKey Revealer detects a virus or malware - Other minor improvements and bug fixes How to Use SoftKey Revealer: After launching SoftKey Revealer, it scans all the installed applications on your computer. The scan process is non-intrusive and there are no annoying sounds or dialogs during the scan. After completing the scan, SoftKey Revealer shows you all the detected keys. The product keys are automatically displayed inside a table, so you can easily sort them by ascending or descending values. The full name of the application appears in the first column, while the serial number of each key is shown in the second column. All the extracted product keys are neatly stored inside an Office document, so you can easily transfer them to a different machine. Save Product Keys: It's easy to store all the detected product keys inside a separate document. SoftKey Revealer has a dedicated tool to save each serial, with the option to automatically name the file with the full name of the application. By default, SoftKey Revealer creates a new document in Office Word, but you can change that to any Office application you want. Additionally, there's a "Copy to Word" option that automatically puts all the serial keys inside an existing document, but it only works with Office applications. Print All Product Keys: SoftKey Revealer also comes with a dedicated utility that lets you print all the detected keys, one line per serial. In order to do that, just open the program and select the "Print" option from the "Tools" menu. Alternatively, you can choose "Copy to Word" from the "Tools" menu, but in this case, the program creates a new document in Office Word and puts all the keys in it. The program comes in two versions: Windows and Office. The Windows version is free, but the Office version costs $39.99. PCM
