In a nation of 318 million people, where only six per cent of the workforce is employed in banking, life is about to become more difficult for a lot of people. The big question is how you and your organisations should react? All major banks in Australia are competing for consumers, and are hoping to sign them up to new fixed term, low interest rate deals. And we know the retail banking industry has a strong incentive to increase its customers who are most likely to be vulnerable. So we've decided to compile a list of some of the most likely organisations. The list includes some of the big names you know, but also some that you may not have heard of. We've left the list as fairly comprehensive as possible, and we'd love to hear your feedback about the sort of companies or industries that doy out the list. What do you think? What concerns you 77a5ca646e
