The function loads the file line by line and creates a new dictionary entry for each line. When I try to populate my "words" dictionary I get an error when I try to access "words" outside the function: "TypeError: 'NoneType' object is not subscriptable" dict(zip(range(n_words), words)) doesn't work either but works fine when inside the function. I don't understand why it can't access the dictionary outside the function and need some help understanding what is going on here. def load_data(pfile): with open(pfile, "r") as infile: lines = infile.readlines() words = {} for line in lines: for word in line.split(): if word in words: words[word] += 1 else: words[word] = 1 return dict(zip
