A Monte Carlo simulation of the phase retrieval in the EPR spectrometer is developed.

The simulation of the experimental setup, and the estimation of the phase shift during the experiment by a spectroscopic fitting procedure, have been successfully developed. The procedure allows the determination of the distribution of the phase shift induced by the sample during the spectrometer measurement. The method is first validated by the simulation of the conventional EPR spectrometer. Next, the simulation of the EPR spectrometer equipped with one resonator used for the experimental technique called electric resonance scanning (ERS). This includes introduction of absorption, phase shift and distribution of the phase shift values, and experimental results are presented.
