Q: How to update records with fluent nhibernate in asp.net mvc? I've got a database for storing open/closed/pending members of a project. I've just added a new column (with default value 1) that indicates if the data is accepted. I do my GETs like this: var pm = this.Session.QueryOver().WhereRestrictionOn(p => p.Project.Id == 1).IsInRole(Model.ProjectRole).Where(p => p.Status == "P").List(); ...and my PUT is: Members m = this.Session.QueryOver().WhereRestrictionOn(p => p.Project.Id == 1).Where(p => p.Status == "C").SetProjectStatus("C").Update().Where(p => p.Project.Id == 1).Set(p => p.Status).Eq("C").ToRow(); This works fine, however it does not update the ID or the members' names. I also tried the following, but since I can't obtain the member (in the update) I get an exception: members.First(); Members updated = Members.First(); Members newm = new Members { UserId = 2, Name = "bla bla", ProjectRole = "project 1", Status = "C" } updated.ProjectRole = newm.ProjectRole; updated.Status = newm.Status; updated.ProjectId = newm.ProjectId; updated.UserId = newm.UserId; Members.Delete

If you get blurry colors in the image, try adjusting the Color Range settings until you're happy with the effect. Step 4 Resize the Threshold to 250 for the next step. Step 5 Make sure your image is 1 pixel thick, then expand the new Image Layer. Step 6 Select the Gradient Tool Drag your gradient and change the settings so that it's the best you can get it.
