395 So.2d 412 (1981) STATE of Florida, Appellant, v. Donald Ray THOMPSON, Appellee. No. 80-2113. District Court of Appeal of Florida, Fourth District. June 16, 1981. Rehearing Denied August 6, 1981. *413 Jim Smith, Atty. Gen., Tallahassee, and Russell S. Bohn, Asst. Atty. Gen., West Palm Beach, for appellant. Richard L. Jorandby, Public Defender, and Tatjana Ostapoff, Asst. Public Defender, West Palm Beach, for appellee. PER CURIAM. We reverse and remand. The State of Florida (hereinafter "State") appeals an order dismissing the indictment against Donald Ray Thompson (hereinafter "defendant"). Defendant was charged with sexual battery and burglary. At the arraignment, defendant entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of sexual battery. The trial judge ordered a mental examination to determine the defendant's competency to stand trial, pursuant to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.210(b). Defendant was examined by two psychiatrists and by the court. Based on the report of the two psychiatrists, the court found that the defendant was mentally competent to stand trial. However, the court found that a third psychiatrist, appointed by the court, had not examined defendant in accordance with Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.210(b) because the psychiatrist had examined the defendant only for competency. After the court ordered the third psychiatrist to conduct a mental examination, defendant filed a motion to dismiss the indictment which was subsequently granted. Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.210(b) provides in pertinent part: If, prior to the trial, the court, of its own motion or upon motion of counsel for the defendant, or on its own initiative, shall have reasonable cause to believe that the defendant is not mentally competent to stand trial, the court shall order the defendant to be examined by no more than three (3) psychiatrists or three (3) licensed psychologists to be selected by the defendant or the state.... The rule mandates that a defendant be examined by psychiatrists or psychologists appointed by the court. The trial judge must find that "reasonable cause" exists before the examination of the defendant by a psychologist is proper. This determination may be made at any time during the proceedings. The role of the prosome, the neck of a cytoplasmic ribonucleoprotein particle, is to aid in the transport of its component transcripts through the nuclear pore complex during nuclear export. Molecular modeling based upon the known structure of Nucleoplasmin, a cytosolic RNA binding protein, as well as biochemical evidence from the Weissman lab, suggests that the prosome coat on the transcript may be formed by the association of two or three larger RNA binding domains in what may be a folded structure. We have chosen to focus on the structure and binding of the nuclear export receptor for the human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV-1) vRNA. We have shown that this protein can bind several RNAs including that for the vRNA. It can also bind to a number of other proteins including the core of the nuclear pore. Biochemical evidence from the Raymond lab as well as our studies of the HIV-1 transcript suggests that it can bind at least 2 copies of the vRNA which are positioned within the transcript at distinct sites. Based upon this evidence, we have developed a model in which the HIV-1 transcript is folded, the two vRNA regions fold independently, and each are bound by separate prosome domains. We have also determined that the RNA required for the binding of HIV-1 nucleocapsid protein (NC) can, in turn, bind to the prosome domain, thus forming a physical association between the two. We will define the structural requirements for binding of different domains of the prosome domain to the HIV-1 transcript and RNA for the specific binding interactions. We will also determine the binding stoichiometry required for the interactions between the prosome domains and between the prosome domains and NC protein. With a manual crankcase and chain starter, the ME520, like all Honda scooters, is all about riding pleasure and never about how many miles you can get out of it. This is an ideal machine for making quick trips around town, a weekend camping trip, or commuting. Or, maybe you need to cover a long distance across some gravel in the backwoods. Either way, the ME520 can handle it. Read on for our official ME520 review! Ride
