Q: Jenkins file not found I have a Jenkinsfile, using declarative pipeline syntax. I need to perform a git fetch and a git pull. The Jenkinsfile is in the root of the project. However, I can't get Jenkins to access the repository. Getting error: File /home/jenkins/ workspace/MyProject/MyProject/_Jenkins/workspace/MyProject/MyProject/_Jenkins/workspace/MyProject/MyProject/_Jenk ins/workspace/MyProject/Jenkinsfile not found. The _Jenkins directory is not empty. The MyProject/_Jenkins directory is present and has the Jenkinsfile. The _Jenkins/Jenkinsfile directory is present and has the correct Jenkinsfile. The directory _Jenkins/workspace/MyProject/MyProject/_Jenkins is present and has the Jenkinsfile. How to resolve this issue? A: This is an issue with the.git files in your _Jenkins directory. Try moving the _Jenkins directory outside of MyProject, outside of the _Jenkins directory, and Jenkins will run it just fine. Q: Add a middle column to an iTable in a itable So I'm trying to do this thing : But I need to do the first diagram (in blue) using an iTable. And I'm trying to do like below : When I try to do it, I got this : It's because I can't add a column (it's fixed to the dimensions of iTable) and can't put multiple columns inside one cell. You can see I tried to put some margin with the iTable but it still won't work. This is my code : \documentclass{article} \usepackage{array} \usepackage{longtable} \usepackage{lscape} \usepackage{graphicx} \usepackage{placeins} \usepackage{makecell} \begin{document} \begin{table}[h!] \centering \begin{longtable}{|p{3cm}|p{3cm}|p{3cm}|p{3cm}

Q: How to control what is routed to the browser based on which ajax request was made? I have a web page with 2 buttons and a dropdown list and when you click the buttons the ajax requests are made. I have a url and I would like to pass the ajax requests to this url, I'm just wondering if it's possible to send the message with the ajax request. Here is my code (its simplified) $(document).ready(function() { $('#btn1').click(function(){ $.ajax({ type: "GET", url: "", cache: "false", timeout: "3000", success: function(msg){ // do something } }); }); }); A: This information is in the request object that is returned to the success handler, but the returned value is not. Since you can change the data in the request, however, you can write a global ajax handler that does what you want in the ajax done handler. Something like this: $.ajax({ type: "GET", url: "", cache: "false", timeout: "3000", success: function(request, textStatus, xmlHttpRequest) { var arg = request.args; var data = $.parseJSON(request.data.split(",")); var item = data.item; var url = $(arg.url);
