Mighty Mouse (Scooby-Doo) Mighty Mouse is a fictional character, the alter ego of the superhero-hunting Mystery Incorporated. He is voiced by Frank Welker. Created by Danny Antonucci and Bob May and first appearing in Mystery Inc. #1, he was revamped in the "Mystery Incorporated" and "Mystery in Space" storylines. Appearances In the original series, in the mid-1970s, Peter Venkman (who was based on Scooby-Doo creator Don Messick) and Velma Dinkley were in a remote hotel in the Welsh countryside. The hotel was hosting a convention for cartoonists, and was about to be destroyed by a comet – an act that would have hurt the creators of Scooby-Doo, Scooby-Doo, Where Are You?, according to writer/artist Jerry Siegel. To save the creators from loss of their careers or even life, Scooby, Shaggy, Scrappy-Doo, DJ, and Daphne appear and transport the whole group to a secret hideaway. The group takes an oath to work together as "the Mystery Incorporated", which they dub "Mighty Mouse". Mighty Mouse's appearance was redesigned in the late 1970s when the team became more focused on the rebooted continuity that Danny Antonucci began on. He appears in the fifth volume of the main continuity in the series The New Scooby-Doo Movies. For most of the main continuity, he is listed as a member of the Mystery, Inc. gang, but in Scooby-Doo! and the Spooky Swamp, he was seen as a player in the Supernatural Lockjaw and Possessed Jinkies card game. Other appearances Mighty Mouse has made appearances in such other media as Scooby-Doo! and the Reluctant Dragon. He is one of the main characters in the Happy Holidays animated specials of Scooby-Doo, Scrappy-Doo, and Shaggy & Friends, along with Scrappy-Doo and Shaggy. He also appeared in the German productions Meisterhase und Mästerdiebe and Wien ist eine Modefabrik (roughly, "Masterpiece and Master Thieves"). Reception Mighty Mouse was ranked #14 of the 50 Greatest Characters of DC Comics' Super Hero Series in Wizard magazine. The editors cited
