“New features mean players can control the pitch like never before, allowing them to break, receive the ball, and sprint past opponents with ease,” said Senior Design Director Nick Channon. “The new in-game engine also delivers a new set of tools, from new physics, pitch shapes and the ability to select advanced weather systems to create more realistic ball movements and authentic aerodynamics. We’ve also made specific improvements to the individual movements of players to deliver the industry’s most realistic player movements.” FIFA 20 was the most successful FIFA ever at retail, with over $800 million in global retail sales and nearly 1.6 million concurrent online players. With FIFA 21’s release on October 20, 2019, the FIFA series is now in its 15th year of continuous global retail release. The FIFA franchise has sold a combined total of 75 million units and has won over 100 Game of the Year Awards. In 2017, FIFA was the best-selling sports game in the United States for the 17th straight year, and the best-selling video game franchise of the year. About Electronic Arts Inc.
