I also tested it by running it in the browser and it worked fine. Now I want to test the same in a facebook app. I want to change the program for mobile and test the update of the app. Is it possible? A: Try the Google and Apple's Facebook apps, they are perfect tools to test your app. Q: How to input text as expected, using option select? I have a code that uses option select to populate and validate the input. It's working as expected when selecting numbers, but when it's selecting a letter, the input returns as required, but also prints as input (which is not desired). At the moment, I'm using this: `input type="text" name="postcode" id="postcode" required` And this: `var str = document.getElementById("postcode").value; if(str == "") { alert('Postcode is required'); return false; }` A: The reason the code is not returning false is because it is not being assigned to a variable. If you want to check for the value you have to assign it to a variable. `if(str == "") alert('Postcode is required'); var str = document.getElementById("postcode").value; if(str == "") { alert('Postcode is required'); return false; }` 648931e174
