PARIS (Reuters) - Arsenal's youngsters picked up their first trophies this season as five-time champions Paris St Germain's EDS Nord will play host to a Champions League group stage game on Tuesday. Alexander Lacazette scored twice to propel Arsenal to a 3-0 victory over Valencia in the Europa League semi-finals on Sunday, clinching the domestic double with his strike being the Frenchman's 100th goal for the club. The win means Arsenal will likely face PSG in their last-16 Champions League game at home, before travelling to the Stade de France for the match against Bayern Munich on Feb. 12. Only two English teams have won five European Cups, with Manchester United claiming the competition's first five titles before the red-and-white army of Liverpool supporters from the "Scouse army" and Arsenal's famous "double-decker bus" fans. However PSG's young squad, which has also included players like Kylian Mbappe, Presnel Kimpembe, Adrien Rabiot and EDS Nord team-mates Leroy Sane and Aaron Ramsey, will play in this match. "The boys are tired, but they've just won an important game," Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger said after his team's triumph over Valencia. "

You should be able to install from a single package. Try both `/root/` and `/usr/local/bin` as terminal type `sudo apt-get install int-gpu-tools` Run both of the above commands from the command line. Computer-aided diagnosis system in ophthalmology. Over the past decade, the development of ophthalmic technologies has been very active. This has inevitably provoked physicians to use computer-aided diagnostic systems in their daily examination and to develop electronic decision support systems to aid diagnosis. Automatic retrieval of medical images is now common practice. Computer-aided diagnosis is also extending to ophthalmic images. Computer-aided diagnosis systems may play an important role in the understanding of ocular diseases, in the management of ocular diseases, and in the education of ophthalmologists. In this review, we examine the concept of computer-aided diagnosis and its application to ophthalmology, and discuss the utility of computer-aided diagnosis in ophthalmology. Q: ScrollView error when initializing View from a Fragment When I try to initialize a ScrollView from a Fragment, I get "inflate" error. I have the code below that create the View. The error is set in "addCell". I could not figure it out why I get this error. private View createView() { View view = getActivity().getLayoutInflater().inflate(R.layout.detailCab, parent, false); mScrollView = (ScrollView) view.findViewById(R.id.scrollView); mFlexBars = new FlexBars(getActivity(), R.id.flex_container); mManager.put(position, view); return view; } A: Inside your adapter's getView() method, the root view returned is, by default, the parent view of the fragment. You need to return mScrollView = @Override public View getView(int position, View convertView, ViewGroup parent) { //.... View view = createView(); mManager.put(position, view) d0c515b9f4
