Manage cookie settings Here's the blurb from the accompanying video: FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology", the next evolution in real-world on-pitch physics. Powered by players' on-field actions, it captures the actual feel of player movement and every touch of the ball. Every player's skill level, fitness, and stamina will shape the flow of the game, resulting in more realistic, challenging gameplay. By capturing the real-life player with motion capture and sensor technologies, we're able to make the player's range of motion, fitness, stamina and decision-making feel closer to reality. This also means the speed of the game will feel more intense for players of all levels, giving players the opportunity to experience the perfect balance of offense and defense over the entire pitch. The video shows a couple of visuals that illustrate this, and here's a page with more detail: "Realistic Player Motion" technology is a new feature that gives you the experience of playing a game inspired by real-world soccer, while maintaining the speed and tempo of a fast-paced, fast-moving sport. All of these features have been matched to the demands of the game's increased physics engine for smoother gameplay and more reactive players. The physics engine features new algorithms that predict and react to the ball player's actions, so the ball makes a smarter decision. You'll feel the ball moving faster and with more unpredictability, with more realistic results. You'll also notice that the position of the player's head is more on-screen, making for a more immersive experience. A new input system, including a motion controller, Kinect, and the Xbox Adaptive Controller, gives you unparalleled freedom to play and control the game in the way that's most comfortable for you. No need to adjust the camera to get the most comfortable angle. With "Realistic Player Motion", you can do all of this and more. Real-world player movement was captured with the Player Navigator from 5th Cell and an ActiCapture sensor, mounted on the player's body. That data was further interpreted by the all-new Player Impact Engine (PIE) algorithm, with refined physics to model the

What's new:

- Introducing “HyperMotion Technology”: The new gameplay engine in FIFA 22 supports authentic player animations based on the squad you build to represent your favorite player. It’s the most authentic football movement ever seen on consoles, and the only new engine to be used in consecutive games.
- A Newed, deeper User Interface (UI) that is designed to suit your flexibility and fluidity
- New YouTube integration for easy access to the world’s largest video sharing platform. Turn on the YouTube companion app to see live previews of key video highlights, progress information, and get tips on the best player you’re about to draft in your Ultimate Team.
- Modern smartphone-optimized menus and screen layouts that provide a fluid and streamlined one-tap experience
- A new, character-optimized Player Career mode
- A new balanced, tighter Passing Game
- A streamlined TAP to shoot function for easier access to all of the tools in the PlayStation Camera’s shooting mode
- A new ‘Intercept’ system for an all-new way to win: The ‘Intercept System’ rewards players for playing the opposition’s game by giving them more space to play, more time on the ball, and by making the players they’re passing to more effective on the ball and more vulnerable to being eliminated.
- New attacks: The ‘Cross Attack,’ designed for smaller players to chase down attackers into deep areas and the perfect tool to use for tighter centre-backs. The Right-Left Full-Back Attack (RLFB), which is perfect for unlocking fullbacks and central midfielders.
- New Defensive Tactic: The ‘Long Ball’ tactic is perfect for all defenders and central midfielders who pride themselves on their high-energy play and their ability to crowd out their opponents, shutting them down by denying them space behind their back line. To use this tactic, move close to the opposition’s penalty area to force them to concede possession and then focus on closing down the players.

This will eventually force them out of the game and out of dangerous positions.

- New Tactics: the 'I-Ghost' tactic stops defenders from helping out their teammates from just outside their FIFA is the world's #1 videogame soccer franchise with over 100 million copies sold worldwide since its first release in September 1992. It's the only videogame franchise to have won over 40 awards in the Game of the Year category from various leading game outlets. Today's FIFA is recognisable for its commitment to innovation, authenticity, inclusiveness, social interaction, and a high level of gameplay. Beyond the game, the FIFA brand is an international sports media and licensing phenomenon and a major player on both the college and professional sports scene. The FIFA name is synonymous with fun, style and football. FIFA has won over 150 industry accolades from Game of the Year categories to Sports Game of the Year, including 15 BAFTA nominations, 2 Academy Awards and 70 E3 Game of the Year awards. It is one of the most beloved sports videogames of all time. EA SPORTS™ FIFA 20 has been nominated for BAFTA in the Sports Game of the Year category! But now it's time to #LendMeYourVote and help decide what the winner will be. FIFA 19 was downloaded over 1 million times in 24 hours after its launch, so the momentum is building for FIFA 20, which will deliver an experience we're sure fans will enjoy.
