I don't like this mod, let's get it out of the way - or should I say, let's get it in the way of The Legacy. We just wanted to take a moment to appreciate The Legacy for what it is, even though it's nothing that should be in official worlds. It's the foundation of our reality. What it does is act as the nuclear power source for the nuclear renaissance occurring in our world. Oh well, I guess it's just another Fallout fanfiction, which is why it's FPN mod of the week! 2.6K shares It's Halloween weekend, and I'm going to share with you a recipe for a simple, oh-so-delicious pumpkin cake – inspired by my fave Disney Christmas character – The Little Mermaid. My aim is to help keep your kitchen tidy, and this recipe does just that. There's no need to turn this into a full on baking frenzy. I'm not aiming to create a work of art or anything, it's simply delicious. If you're staying at home or turning into an enthusiastic house-elf on Halloween this year, you will appreciate this recipe as it's perfect for an easy (read: lick-clean) clean-up after a lovely meal. You can prepare it ahead and keep it in the fridge for the party, or bake it before your family arrives. Either way, it's going to be worth it. How to Make the Halloween Mermaid Pumpkin Cake You can decide whether you want a classic vanilla sponge cake, with a light, fluffy, moist sponge to toast your family and friends. Or a dark, moist, spongy cake to provide a kind of spookiness. And then you could add chocolate to the mix if you're feeling brave – even including fish cookies for a simple trick or treating activity – and all you need is a mixture of mild-flavoured milk and some licorice to get the little mermaid effect. It might be a bit more Halloween-ish with a blue spice cookie instead of a white one but you can really make it any way you like. This does take the top cake of a double-layer sponge (I use a 40cm cake tin) but the rest of the batter can be kept separate as it does make a lot of batter. The sponge can be kept in the fridge for up to 3 days but then please do treat it very carefully to avoid it drying out. I made some of the pumpkin mixture a few days before the party so it could be stashed in the fridge and have a rest. It's in a large tin, but you can make a smaller version by using a tin with a smaller capacity or cutting the mixture in half for a sponge in a smaller size tin. You could even freeze part of the batter in between baking so you can bake it in smaller batches (I bake two or three sp
