The present system of bail and release is maintained by the State for the benefit of the accused persons and the community and not for the benefit of the judiciary. It is in the interest of the accused to file a bail application and be released pending trial. However, many accused persons decide to serve the entire sentence and are released only upon completion of the term. In cases of suo-motuo bail, there is no provision for bail by a person not a party to the proceedings. In cases of suo-motuo bail, there is no provision for bail by a person not a party to the proceedings. Though the State government does not provide any facilities for bail, a person can claim damages in respect of the matter on which he was detained. After the decision of the Supreme Court in D.N. Suryanarayana, the State government made a law to provide facilities for bail to the accused persons. A copy of the PIL docket No. 1 of 1993, which petitioned the State government for making a law for facilities for bail, is placed on record.
