Incl.A systematic review of the effectiveness of complementary and alternative medicine for the treatment of attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder. Complementary and alternative medicines (CAMs) are widely used by patients with attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). CAMs are not well researched, and guidelines regarding their use are limited. This review assessed the effectiveness of the use of CAMs for ADHD. To assess the effectiveness of CAMs for ADHD in children and adults. A systematic search of MEDLINE, EMBASE, Cochrane Central Register of Controlled Trials, CINAHL, AMED, and PsycINFO was undertaken. Controlled clinical trials of ADHD patients that compared the effectiveness of CAMs with a non-CAM were included. The heterogeneity of CAMs precluded meta-analysis. Three hundred and twenty-eight studies were identified; 15 were eligible. Controlled studies of acupuncture, Chlorella, Ginkgo, St. John's wort, magnesium, melatonin, l-phenylalanine, valerian and evening primrose oil were identified. Two studies reported a significant effect, while one study of evening primrose oil did not. The CAMs considered to be most promising for ADHD, based on the current literature, are the amino acid l-phenylalanine, melatonin and evening primrose oil. Well-designed, randomised, placebo-controlled trials of CAMs for the treatment of ADHD are required. Ask HN: Is there an official bookmarklet API? - bd I'm just curious. Has anyone created an API or standard to make the tagging of links easy? It seems that having to remember the css class name and javascript function name to make a link is a pain, and not a good way to implement a bookmarklet.Thanks. ====== dave_au ------ bd Sorry, I don't know if it's a list on the page I linked but there's the following: * jQuery 1.4.2 * MiniLISP * LaTeX * Vanilla JavaScript * CreateJS * Advanced JavaScript Libraries 648931e174

I'm currently trying to test a function that inserts data into a DB, using the following code: require_once '../db.php'; function test_method($data) { $result = $this->db->fetchRow("select * from test1 where kol='$data'"); } class Data1 extends Db1 { public function fetchRow($condition) { $result = $this->db->fetchRow($condition); return $result; } } The function test_method() is from a class called Db1, which has fetchRow() as a public method. The insert works just fine and fetchRow() does what it's supposed to, but I'm not sure how to test whether the row was inserted or not. I need a value to specify in my test_method() function. I know I should be able to get this from the form_data object, that's what I'm kind of expecting but it's not there. What I'm actually trying to do is: db->fetchRow($condition); return $result; } } class Data1_test extends Db1_test { public function test_my_function() { $data = 'd1'; $this->db->addRow('select * from test1 where kol='$data'"); $this->assertEquals(1, $this->db->fetchRow('select * from
