It is located in the basement of a building dating from the 18th century and since 1886 belonging to the clergy of the Holy Trinity (Holy Trinity Church). The museum covers 3,000 m2 of floor space and includes exhibitions about the natural and historical environment of the Iberian Peninsula, and its Celtic and Roman remains. The museum was founded in 1972. A new building is under construction to house a new exhibition called "The Hypothesis", which examines the origin of man in Southern and Central Europe. The building covers a total area of 14,000 m2 and was designed by the Spanish architect José Artero Román. But gdal compilation of the same raster takes more than 2G of RAM. I have checked many solutions on this forum, here is what I have done: Added -DUSE HIGH WIDTH BYTE=1 to gdal configuration file. Removed -r thin option from gdal configuration file. Added nac config setting in apache poi configuration file. Removed the possibility to use large images (over 1Mpx) in apache poi. It was allowing up to 4Mpx. Tried to use ogr2ogr and gdal. We are getting following error: Caused by: java.lang.OutOf
