MEXICO CITY (Reuters) - Mexican President Enrique Pena Nieto is defending a plan to impose a 2% tax on remittances to get money to tackle drug trafficking, even as the United States bans the practice. Mexico's President Enrique Pena Nieto speaks as he hosts visiting Prime Minister of Argentina Mauricio Macri at Mexico's Foreign Ministry in Mexico City, Mexico January 10, 2017. REUTERS/Henry Romero Pena Nieto said on Saturday that Mexico must act quickly in order to regain economic growth. He made the comments at a meeting with Macri in Mexico City, where they were expected to sign an agreement on the tax as well as other issues. Macri is in Mexico as part of his first official visit to the country. The 2% tax on remittances, which came into effect this year, is the first to come from a government of a bilateral partner. The United States government has been cracking down on money transfers, increasingly clamping down on U.S. citizens transferring funds to Mexican nationals and considering new restrictions on sending money from the United States to Mexico. "We are talking about an integrated policy that requires our three banks to be part of the solution to recover part of the GDP that is being lost as a result of the situation of drugs trafficking," Pena Nieto said in a televised address. He said his administration has already secured money from other sources to fund the ambitious anti-drugs plan, but declined to give details. According to the Mexican government, drug trafficking costs Mexico about $7 billion per year. The government says this undermines Mexico's efforts to combat poverty and corruption, whose sources are linked to organized crime. Pena Nieto has touted the tax as a tool to fight drug cartels and has said it will be the "final straw" that triggers a change in drug-related violence. U.S. President Donald Trump has criticized Mexico, saying the country was not doing enough to stop the flow of drugs across the border. Trump proposed a plan this week to cut off the U.S. flow of foreign aid to countries that he said do not do enough to stop the flow of drugs across the U.S. border. Mexico did not react to Trump's comments, and Pena Nieto's administration has said it has been working with Washington to improve relations. The announcement on the 2% tax came on the same day

Ganglioside GM3 is the most frequent carbohydrate-binding-protein of the apoptotic pathway in Fas-transfected Chinese hamster ovary cells. We used HPLC-based techniques to separate and quantitate glycosphingolipid fractions in Chinese hamster ovary (CHO) cells overexpressing the Fas receptor. We found that ganglioside GM3 was one of the most prominent sialoglycosphingolipids in CHO-Fas(+) cells. In cells expressing the Fas receptor, endogenously produced GM3 was significantly increased compared with wild-type cells. An anti-Fas neutralizing antibody diminished apoptosis in CHO-Fas(+) cells by 22%, suggesting that endogenous GM3 facilitates apoptosis in a Fas-dependent manner. Therefore, we used confocal microscopy to examine the intracellular distribution of GM3, Fas, and alpha-tocopherol and the effect of anti-Fas treatment. The intracellular accumulation of GM3 and Fas increased in concomitance with loss of the mitochondrial membrane potential in CHO-Fas(+) cells. Administration of the Fas monoclonal antibody ZB4 enhanced GM3-induced apoptosis in cells, suggesting that GM3 is involved in apoptotic signaling through Fas. In addition, GM3 colocalized with alpha-tocopherol, a key molecule in apoptosis signaling. Thus, our results suggest that GM3 is actively involved in apoptotic signaling through Fas, and that GM3 may be a useful therapeutic target.Q: How do i send the body of a variable in the body of an HTTP request in Java?
